

Lisa M. Tackach

Awards Chair

Business Development, Railroad Construction Company Inc. (RCC)

Lisa Tackach is part of the Business Development Team at Railroad Construction Company, Inc. (RCC), Lisa is both tenacious and dedicated to developing genuine business relationships with quality partners to expand, diversify and build on the success of the company, providing exceptional civil and track construction services and ultimately enhancing the industry as a whole.

Lisa joined RCC in 2014 after spending nearly seven years with the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance-of-Way Association (AREMA), advancing through a series of promotions from Manager to Director of Marketing. Through AREMA, Lisa was introduced to an industry she has inevitably grown to respect and admire.

While promoting AREMA at industry events, Lisa established a rapport with many members who have dedicated their time fulfilling the mission of AREMA to develop and advance both the technical and practical knowledge and recommended practices pertaining to the design, construction and maintenance of railway infrastructure. Lisa has witnessed, firsthand, the value of an association and how contributing to a cause can make a difference. The time she spent at AREMA prepared Lisa for her current role at RCC.

Lisa was born and raised in Northern Virginia. She graduated from Pace University, Lubin School of Business with a Bachelor of Business Administration, Advertising and Promotion degree. Lisa enjoys surrounding herself with family and friends, capturing special moments on camera. An advocate for senior pet rescue, Lisa campaigns for animal adoption and volunteers with local charities. She currently lives in New Jersey with her husband, daughter and senior dog, Gianni.
